Trading is the key to financial markets. Advances in trading led to growth and expansion of financial market activity as also brought in institutions and individual investors in a big way to the markets. Increased scope of trading-induced emergence of multi-asset classes and numerous financial products benefited investors in planning and diversification of investments.

India has a vast experience and expertise in trading in financial markets. Beginning with open cry in the earlier days to electronic trading now with options of multi-asset-class trading platforms and scores of associated trading solutions, trading has transformed into a major activity in the financial markets operations.

Trading Tutor is a facility and service that has been designed by Financial Technologies Knowledge Management Company Limited (FTKMC) with the aim to spread knowledge and skill-sets in trading. Given the huge scope for growth potential of the financial markets in India and expansion of asset classes and product range, there will be a huge demand for trading skills, which Trading Tutor will endeavour to fulfill.

Trading Tutor will conduct several courses on various aspects of trading on a regular basis and will engage in developing new-generation traders with skill-sets and expertise that will meet the requirements of the next-generation financial markets.

A team of experts from FTKMC with support from leading trading professionals in the financial markets will organize various programmes and courses in trading.
